it is the belief among qualified persons within the Party that there will shortly be held a meeting of all Communist leaders throughout South America. Since it is felt that the Pan-American Conference in August will consider the Communist problem, either officially or unofficially, Communist circles in Argentina conjecture that the meeting of their leaders will have for one of its principal objects the studying of methods to preclude a general outlawing of their Party throughout Latin America. It is further felt that such a meeting of Communist leaders would also take steps to have Latin American Communist Parties in the future devote more time to local problems in order to make them appear to have at heart the interests of the various nations in which they exist.
